

Health Care Provider Standard Practice Resources: Virtual Care

It is important for all health care providers to consider the implications of delivering care virtually. It is the responsibility of the health care provider to determine what the appropriate provisions are based on the recommendations of their governing bodies.

We strongly encourage any health care provider that is planning on using virtual care in any capacity to contact their respective governing bodies with any questions, concerns and/or to obtain any further information on the use of virtual care in your clinical setting. Below are several links that provide information on these standard practices. This list is not exhaustive. For more information, go to the appropriate website and click on "Search".

Health Care Professionals planning to practice virtual care services with Canadian patients outside of Nova Scotia must contact the governing body from that other jurisdiction to discuss licensing requirements.
